

the 2008 Busy Woman's Guide to Networking & Social Groups

The handshake, the business card and the elevator speech. These are every busy woman's tools for connecting to other busy women! In the Washington, DC Metro area, its not only what you know ... its also who you know. Busy women of all walks of life are joining groups to expand both professional and personal horizons.

Want to do business with other women entrepreneurs? Have your morning workout with other stroller-pushing Moms? Meet more area folks interested in community service? You name it, there's a group for it.

The Busy Woman's Guide to Networking and Social Groups directs women looking to make a connection. All of the groups invited have been highly recommended by women in the community through our exclusive word of mouth process. The section includes tips and hints, as well as extended editorial content.
